CAPITAL Office Accounting Software For The Metaland Group

Business

Software

CAPITAL Office Software has been designed with the steel industry in mind, and is the approved accounting system for use with the Metaland Franchise Group.

Easy Stock/Price File Imports

Stock/Price files are available from a variety of Metaland suppliers. This information can be uploaded directly into your accounting system so that the latest products and prices are available from within the system.

Large Product Codes & Descriptions

Product codes can be up to 25 characters long and product descriptions can be of unlimited length. Many accounting programs can't cope with large product descriptions, which can be a particular problem in the steel industry.

Instant Keyword Searching

Many product and description codes in the steel industry are difficult to remember. Unlike computers, humans search for product descriptions in different ways. For example, unless a description is entered in exactly the right sequence of letters and numbers, most accounting programs can't immediately locate the product you want or present a short-list of likely matches. CAPITAL's key word search feature will instantly match the words you enter in a variety of different combinations and will find the products you need (or the closest matches). And searching remains instantaneous, whether there are 100 or 100,000 products in your database.

Quantity Conversions

Most accounting systems are unable to buy and sell in a variety of different sizes and lengths. For example, in your business you might purchase by metre, length, tonne, and pack, and sell by metre, length and other combinations. And these different sizes have different associated cost and sell prices! Only CAPITAL allows you to purchase in an unlimited number of different sizes and units of measure, and sell in an unlimited number of different sizes and units of measure.

Portions (Lengths) Management

Inventory can be held in stock in the smallest standard unit of sale (e.g., a metre) while simultaneously tracking the total number of available lengths and their dimensions. For example, you can track the number of steel rods in stock of a particular grade, and what their lengths are. CAPITAL even comes equipped with features to cut rods into smaller lengths on the fly and automatically allocate sizes below a minimum to "off cuts".

Service Management & Job Costing

Ideal for managing service work, fabrication and construction. Estimate costs, raise quotes, and record materials used, labour time and other expenses. Job cards track a complete history of the work you've performed in the past, and can be easily customised by you to support the unique requirements of your business.

Serial Number & Warranty Date Tracking

Serial numbers can be recorded in the system for heavy tools such as welders, electrical power tools and other hardware you may retail. By noting the warranty period for each item you can track whether a returned item is still covered by warranty or follow-up with additional product offers after the warranty period has expired.

A Total Business Solution

Specialised accounting packages tend to be good at a few specific things but poor at running other aspects of your business. CAPITAL Office comes with state-of-the-art stock control, general accounting, cash management, purchasing, job costing and ordering systems. CAPITAL is not just an ideal solution for managing stock control in the steel industry: It has powerful features to help you service, repair, hire, fabricate and distribute goods. It handles GST and provides valuable reports to help you with the Business Activity Statement. CAPITAL is an ideal all round business solution.

Competitive Pricing

Accounting systems that go beyond the basics are typically very expensive. The CAPITAL Professional Edition is the base system that gives you all of the features needed to manage stock control effectively in the steel industry, and pricing starts from only $2514 including GST. For under $4,000 you can have your software professionally installed by an experienced consultant. Product updates are competitively priced and there are no mandatory upgrades. (Service agreements are recommended but optional. You can upgrade your software when you are ready to.)

Experienced Consultants

CAPITAL Office Business Software has decades of experience getting small businesses computerised with accounting software. Our track record dates back to 1985 and we have thousands of satisfied users. We also have many years experience working with clients in the steel and timber industries.
